

VAST AMERICAN OFFENSIVE IN PACIFIC REVERBERATES IN TOKYO; JAP' ARMY, NAVY CHIEFS DEPOSED AS ONE RESULT

Britain and U. S. Carry Fight to Japan and Germany in Increasing Strength — Germany Blasted Heavily — In Italy, Nazi Legions Are Hurled Back Still Further by Allied Tank and Infantry Forces.

(By International News Service)

The United States and Britain carried the fight to Japan and Germany today in increasing strength and unbroken blows that not only jarred the opposing military units from defense positions but also rocked the enemy high command.

The vast American offensive in the Pacific reverberated in Tokyo itself today when Nippon's army and navy chiefs were deposed as a result of the series of stinging defeats administered by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz and General Douglas MacArthur.

The U. S. offensive in the South-Central Pacific moved forward as American troops sped the drive to gain complete control of the Marshall Islands by landing on Eniwetok, the main isle in the atoll of the same name.

Germany, blasted from the air yesterday by the mightiest U. S. aerial armada ever to strike the continent, was hit again by large formations of Royal Air Force bombers.

In Italy the Nazi legions which had sought to crush the Fifth Army beachhead south of Rome were smashed back still further by Allied tank and infantry forces.

The terrific reverses suffered by Japan in the South-Central and Southwest Pacific in the current U. S. offensive resulted in the first major shake-up of Japan's high command.

Broadcasts of official communiqués revealed that Fleet Admiral Osami Nagano chief of the Navy's general staff, had been forced to relinquish his post to Navy Minister Admiral Shigetaro Shimada.

Premier Hideki Tojo himself took over the job of Chief of the Army General Staff on orders of Emperor Hirohito from Field Marshal General Sugiyama.

Announcement of the high command shakeup came almost simultaneously with a Jap admission that Nippon had suffered heavily in the American carrier task force assault on Truk, huge Jap base in the Carolines. A broadcast by

Two-Way Phone System Put In Operation On Train

Establishment in practical operation of a two-way electronic train telephone system, permitting continuous verbal communication with moving trains, between trains and between the head and rear of trains, was announced today by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The initial installation has been made on the 67-mile Belvidere-Delaware branch, running northward from Trenton, N. J. Officials stated that, while not yet adapted to general use, the new means of communication has now definitely demonstrated its capability of adding materially to the efficiency of controlling train movements. It has been produced in collaboration with the Union Switch & Signal Company, following several years of intensive experimentation and development, which are still continuing.

Visual Aids Will Assist in Studies

Men and women of Bristol who will enroll in one of the sixteen tuition-free war training courses which will be offered here by the Pennsylvania State College, will be greatly assisted in their classroom studies by the visual aids department of the College.

Complete kits of laboratory and demonstration apparatus are supplied for the various classes. For instance the engineering drafting classes are furnished with drawing boards, T-squares, drafting instruments and drafting kits, and the tool design classes are supplied with draftsquaws, tool kits, and lettering triangles.

Motion pictures, made at the College, will be brought to Bristol to illustrate portions of various courses which ordinarily would be difficult to visualize. These sound films are scheduled regularly throughout the program. The college employs 2,500,000 feet of film used as supplementary instruction. A staff of nine trained projectionists travels about the state five days each week showing films to the evening classes. The films vary in length from 400 to 2800 feet and are shown on the most modern equipment.

Students with a high school education or its equivalent in industrial experience will be admitted to the courses. For the more technical courses additional education will be required. This can best be determined by a personal interview during registration at the Bristol high school. Trained interviewers, men who are experienced in business and industrial fields, will be on hand at that time together with officials from the College.

Registration will be from 7 to 9 p. m. on February 28 and 29.

Return To Tunisia; Writer Visits Battlefields

This is the eighth in a series of 12 articles by an International News Service staff correspondent describing a return visit to Tunisian battlefields. Today's article was written in Maknassy, the southern Tunisian village which was a No Man's land at times.

By Graham Hovey

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

MAKNASSY, Tunisia, Feb. 21—(INS)—It is off to the left of the road on the east end of town as you drive toward the sea—a kind of open air "war museum" filled with evidence that American and German soldiers once slugged it out for tiny Maknassy in World War II. For a village of only 500 souls, Maknassy figured prominently in the battle for Tunisia, and intends to assure that all of the next generation will be reminded of it.

The museum actually is just a field; a junk yard if you will, but its relics are numerous and varied and taken together they probably represent every battle which ever took place in the area. There are two German super-dive bombers shot down by American anti-aircraft fire, but near them are wrecks of three American P-40 fighters to balance things up. There are tanks, half-tracks, motorcycles, trucks and artillery pieces—some of them American, some German and Italian.

They probably were dragged in all the way from Sene, 30 miles to the west and Djebel Naemia, that formidable defense position the Americans were never able to crack about 8 miles east of Maknassy.

When you drive up Sene Valley today it seems ironic that each time American forces captured Sene and Maknassy these two towns appeared in banner headlines in American newspapers as though we were really getting somewhere with our war. The Sene station consists of half a dozen buildings in the center of a valley flanked by two mountains. Its capture meant only that our infantry had worked through Djebel Orhata and Goussa far enough to prevent the enemy from cutting down with gunfire on other forces moving up the valley to the station. The capture of Maknassy meant little more.

Col. Elson D. Raff's paratroopers roamed Sene Valley in the early days of the Tunisian campaign. Once Raff's boys came all the way from Gafsa to Maknassy to shoot up an Italian garrison.

Last January a small American Armored force arrived off Gafsa. At dawn the force blasted the German and Italian installations and gave the enemy plenty of trouble. Watching the action from Djebel Orhata, Col. Raff was discovered by an enemy patrol and had to stage a personal retreat under fire, leaving his jeep. His driver, Corp. Joseph Mollo, of Bristol, Pa., later went on a one-man reconnaissance and recovered the car.

In early February after the creation of the American II Corps, a formidable tank and infantry force was massed for another assault up the Sene Valley.

The plan was to take Sene with infantry, then race the armor up through Maknassy and all the way to the Mediterranean if possible, thus preventing a junction of Rommel's retreating Korps with the German Tunisian forces.

But the Germans had reinforced Sene. Our infantry attack bogged

WEDDED WITH DOUBLE RING CEREMONY HERE

Miss Lucy Pioe Becomes Bride of Petty Officer 2 c Clarence Schreiber

IN ST. ANN'S CHURCH

At a double ring ceremony solemnized yesterday morning at 11 o'clock in St. Ann's R. C. Church, the Rev. Father Peter Pincini united in marriage Miss Lucy Pioe, 847 Pine street, and Petty Officer 2/c Clarence Schreiber, of the Philadelphia Navy Yard.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Joseph Rubino, and she was given in marriage by her stepfather, Mr. Rubino. Petty Officer Schreiber is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schreiber, of Trenton, N. J.

At the nuptial mass the church choir sang, and a number of friends were in attendance at the ceremony.

Members of the bridal party were: Miss Ann Lanza, Dorrance street, and Miss Eva Pioe, sister of the bride, as bridesmaids; Petty Officer 2/c Marvin Hart, of the Philadelphia Navy Yard, best man; and Mr. Frank Rubino, Lincoln avenue, usher.

The bride wore a gown of white brocade, featuring a wedding bell motif. A band of imported white angora outlined the drop shoulder yoke and a portion of the flattering neckline. Long fitted sleeves which tapered to a point below the wrist and a well fitted basque bodice complimented the bouffant skirt and train. A finger-tip veil of white illusion fell gracefully from a heart-shaped coronet, which was edged in angora. Instead of the conventional bouquet, the bride carried a matching miff covered with white roses and orchids.

Carrying out the theme of "winter white" the bridesmaids were attired in modified versions of the bride's gown, accentuated by red Juliet caps trimmed with a whip of veiling. They carried spray bouquets of red roses.

Three social functions followed the ceremony. The wedding breakfast was served at the Rubino home on Pine street; with dinner at Verdi's Restaurant, Frankford, at four p. m. The evening reception took place in St. Ann's club house.

An orchid dress of silk crepe, muskrat coat, orchid hat of felt, black accessories, and an orchid corsage, were worn by Mrs. Schreiber when she and the bridegroom left for a few days' honeymoon in New York.

Fires Rage in Bombed Stuttgart

London—Giant RAF bombers kindled raging conflagrations in the German industrial city of Stuttgart last night on the heels of yesterday's staggering eight-pronged American daylight blow at the heart of Nazi fighter production which saw 126 enemy planes shot down.

Today, European theater of operations spokesmen announced American heavy bombers based 65 Nazi interceptors in yesterday's record onslaught, while an additional 61 planes were shot down by fighters.

In addition to pounding eight enemy plane plants, the U. S. formations also hit military installations at Rostock and along the Baltic coast.

Nazi Supply Boats Blasted

Algiers—The Nazis, their rail communications blasted almost daily by the Mediterranean Air Force, were disclosed today to be bypassing rail lines in Italy by use of the sea lanes—a plan which came to speedy grief. Mitchell bombers caught 12 schooners and eight fighting boats, loaded with supplies for the embattled German armies below Rome, in Viareggio harbor, between Leghorn and Spezia and destroyed all 20 of the enemy craft.

Enemy Hurled Back Near Rome

Algiers—Veteran American and British troops, unleashing vicious, tank-led counterattacks in the Anzio beachhead below Rome, hurled the enemy back more than a mile in some sectors today and inflicted severe casualties. Added by warships that bombarded German coastal positions, and 900 sorties by Allied planes, Fifth Army ground forces switched from the defensive to the offensive with sudden fury, inflicting casualties running as high as 60 per cent in some German units. So confused were the Germans that some of their aircraft bombed and machine-gunned their own troops during their retreat.

Eighty Million Dressings Asked for Each Month

Warning that, with major battles of the war yet to come, American women can not afford to slacken their efforts for one moment, Mrs. Richard Bissell, assistant director in charge of the Red Cross Volunteer Production Corps, pointed out that the Army has asked the Red Cross to supply 80 million surgical dressings a month, or about 3½ million a day.

"The loyalty, zeal and sacrifice of Red Cross workers will be needed more in the coming months than ever before," Mrs. Bissell said. "Commercial manufacturers have neither the labor nor facilities to meet the requirements of the Surgeon General's office. The Red Cross thus must make a large proportion of the dressings needed, and it is a vital obligation of the Red Cross to turn out these dressings for the casualties which must be expected."

"American men, wounded in battle, will in a very real sense be dependent on the work done by hundreds of thousands of American women in Red Cross chapters throughout the country. Only by a definite sacrifice of time and energy, only by a continued and devoted effort, can the need be met."

Besides the work done in the Surgical Dressing Units, other women working in the Red Cross Production Corps, who number between two and three million, are sewing and knitting many types of hospital garments and comfort articles for the Army and Navy. They also knit garments to meet emergency requests from the Army and Navy and do sewing and renovating of clothes for Home Service and disaster relief.

A Just Punishment

(By "The Stroller")
Word comes to my ears of some "teen-agers" girls who have joined the ranks of boys in causing depredations about the borough.

But one group, or at least one of the said group, came to grief a few nights ago, when a local man did a marathon and caught one of the girls.

Marching her back to his home he ordered her to clean up the mess she and her friends had caused on his front porch by breaking milk bottles. She said she would have to go home for a broom, but the man and his wife obligingly supplied a broom, then, with satisfaction, took the part of spectators as the girl commenced sweeping.

When apprehended the girls were in the act of ringing their third or fourth (or possibly more) door-bell along Radcliffe street. But that time they didn't have a chance to run far.

Moral: Behave yourself or you'll sweep or weep.

MOTHER AND CHILD FLEE FROM FLAMES IN CROYDON HOME

Blaze Burns Off Wooden Shingle Roof of Residence of Geo. Dreher

THE OLD ALLEN HOME

Roof Ignited by Sparks from Chimney, is Belief of Owner

CROYDON, Feb. 21—Firemen from six fire companies fought a blaze this morning which burned off a portion of the roof and damaged the top floor of a house here.

The blaze was at the residence of George Dreher, River Road and Rose avenue. The house a two and a half story frame structure was for many years the residence of the family of Clem Allen.

The flames were confined mostly to the roof which was of wooden shingles and it is believed that they were ignited by sparks from a chimney. Most of the roof was burned off and water and fire did some damage to the interior of the house and the contents. Some of the furniture was removed.

Mrs. Dreher said that her husband, a member of Croydon Fire Company, built a wood fire before he left for work early this morning. Later she put coal on the fire and it is her opinion that sparks from the chimney set fire to the roof.

Firemen from Union Fire and Cornwells Fire Company, No. 1, Croydon, Bristol Consolidated, Goodwill No. 3, and America Hose, Hook & Ladder Co., No. 2, of Bristol, all responded.

The house is located far back from the road at the end of a long lane and a long distance from the nearest fire hydrant. Hundreds of feet of hose had to be laid by the firemen while water was used from the tank wagon of the Cornwells Company and the chemical apparatus of the other companies were pressed into service.

Mrs. Dreher and her six months old daughter were the only persons in the house at the time that the fire was discovered. Both got out safely.

The fire was discovered shortly after ten o'clock.

The attack opened the three-day battle north of New Ireland in which Allied bombers destroyed the convoy, it was revealed Saturday.

Sumner and the crew of his Liberator "Night Snooper" left at least one enemy ship blazing before limping home with 30 holes in the plane, including one from a five-inch shell.

THE MARSHALLS TRIUMPH

Many Americans have not yet grasped how really important is the invasion of the Marshall Islands. The Kwajalein lagoon, into which the huge American invasion fleet sailed a few days after the attack on the Marshalls began, is the largest of its kind in the world. It gives the Navy a major refueling base in the South Pacific which will prove of vital supply importance in the battles to come.

What the Americans have done is to attack on the Japanese flank in the South Pacific. The clearing out of the Marshalls will give the United States dominance over the whole surrounding area. Japanese supply lines, as a result, are practically severed right now.

It means the virtual isolation of the Rabaul area, giving American and Australian troops a chance to move ahead and sweep out that zone of resistance. And when Rabaul is freed, the Allies will hold New Guinea completely. With the Marshalls thus protecting the flank, the whole vast area will become American dominated.

What the plans of General MacArthur are now nobody knows. He has several ways of turning. He may decide to smash toward the occupied Dutch Indies, or he may decide that Truk, the principal Jap naval base in the Mid-Pacific, must be destroyed first.

But whatever he decides, the future is clear. American men and American equipment are superior to the Japanese and with each new attack the far-flung newly captured "empire" of the Japanese shrinks. It will continue to shrink, island by island and area by area, until the fight is carried to the islands of Japan.

And from all sides death and destruction will pour upon Tokyo—from Paramushiro in the north, from Truk and the Philippines in the south, from China on the mainland, from carriers in the North Pacific. It is still a long way off, but the handwriting is clear.

HYBRID COYOTE

A new specimen for the animal kingdom has been provided by Kansas. It is a hybrid, a cross between a coyote and a shepherd dog.

Many of these hybrids have been killed, the most recent kill being in Cowley county where hounds owned by Zach Rush and Charles DeJore chased a pack of five prairie wolves (coyotes) overtaking one, a black specimen, and killing it. Another black coyote got away.

The animal, which didn't run far, turning on the hounds and fighting viciously, weighed more than 50 pounds. The critter was shaped like a coyote, with pointed ears and sharp nose, but its legs were heavier and its coat was black.

In many respects the hybrid prairie wolf is more to be dreaded than the coyote. It retains all the cunning of the coyote and is far more vicious, being a tougher fighter and less inclined to run from man or another beast.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

By Courier Staff Member

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol August 24, 1882. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

A law suit pending in Newtown is to decide the question of the right to keep hives within the limits of the borough, if it is offensive to the neighbors or to persons walking along the streets. Forty-nine persons have been subpoenaed as witnesses.

Work has been commenced on the Mill street wharf preparatory to erecting a shed similar to the one in Burlington.

A sculling match for $400 will take place on the Burlington course on the 18th of September, between William S. Flick, of Philadelphia, and Daniel Galanah, late of Canada.

Some of the wool sorters of Bristol propose having a rowing race on the Delaware on next Saturday afternoon. The course will be from Nathan Hellings' wharf to the Market street wharf.

On Sunday morning about one o'clock the fire bell rang vigorously arousing the people and bringing out the fire department. The fire was discovered to be along the railroad near the Hollow Creek, but instead of a burning building a locomotive on the railroad was found on fire as well as several cars. The firemen rendered what aid was possible and the flames were soon extinguished, but not before they had burned all the woodwork of the locomotive and otherwise damaged it. The cause of the fire was a collision between freight trains just above the Hollow bridge. Few people in town failed to visit the wreck some time during the day. Between seven and eight o'clock a large crowd was present. The scene was quite a lively one. . . . Boots and shoes.

molasses, books, oil, candy and cabinet organs were strewn about in the utmost confusion. . . . One woman's said to have been stopped carrying off ten pairs of shoes, and a tramp was arrested with a good solid pair of shoes for which he had exchanged his old ones. . . .

On Thursday last about 6000 persons assembled at Simpson's Grove, the occasion being a union anniversary of the several Sunday Schools in the neighborhood. Almost every kind of wagon was brought in use on this occasion to convey the children to the grove, while a large number came to the grounds on the cars. . . .

Watson & Buckman, of Newtown, have commenced rebuilding their steam saw mill, planing mill and sash factory, recently burned down. The new works will be on a four acre lot east of Lincoln avenue. . . .

(Following items culled from Bucks Co. Gazette, issue of August 31, 1882.)

The reception tendered to Father Ward of St. Mark's Church, last Friday evening, upon his return home from his vacation tour to the northward, must have been to most agreeable one to that gentleman. He was met at the depot by a large number of the members of his congregation, the T. A. B. Society and the Bristol Cornet Band. Upon alighting from the cars he was presented by a little girl with a horse-shoe of elegant flowers, and then escorted to a barouche in waiting. The band then struck up a tune, the T. A. B. Society lit their torches and formed in rank. When the procession arrived at the parsonage it was found to be brilliantly illuminated, and some fireworks were set off upon its arrival.

From the porch Father Ward addressed a few words to the happy throng. . . .

Mr. Babbit, who, during the time when water hills bloom, gathers a supply daily and takes them to Philadelphia for sale, had his occupation seriously interfered with for several days by the sudden rise of the mill pond, which completely submerged the hills. . . .

William Appleton won the boat race last Saturday afternoon over some half-dozen competitors. . . .

That ugly old landmark, the freight house at the Mill street wharf, has been demolished, and workmen are busy preparing for the erection of a shed over the wharf. . . .

Hammock picnics are all the rage in this section. . . .

Button Hobbies Provide An Entertaining Program

LANGHORNE, Feb. 21—A hobby show was participated in by members of Langhorne Sorosis on Thursday.

Mrs. Phillip Lewis, who had charge of the program, introduced Mrs. Blanche Wexler, whose hobby is the collection of buttons. Members were informed by Mrs. Wexler that the National Button Society was organized in 1939, and that it held its first national display in Chicago.

Pennsylvania, said Mrs. Wexler, has two button organizations, the Betsy Ross Button Society and the Pennsylvania Dutch Button Society. King Louis XV, of France, it was said by Mrs. Wexler, spent thousands of dollars in the collection of buttons. She displayed a number of buttons of that period. She also showed a jacket made in 1866 and on this were buttons made of tapestry. Mrs. Wexler also exhibited enamel, perfume and buttons to represent legends in China. Buttons commemorating important events, including the first crossing of the English Channel by air, were also displayed.

Mrs. Robert Longshore, who for 39 years had as her hobby the collection of buttons, displayed a number arranged in an artistic manner.

Other members of the club displayed interesting collections of articles. Among them were the following: Miss Anna Newbold, teapots and an old bonnet box; Mrs. Paul B. Bonnet, herbs; Miss Dorothy Rothermel, miniature cats and paintings of cats; Mrs. George Leitch, souvenir spoons; Mrs. Leon Baker, spider work writing paper; Mrs. Arthur Hellyer and Mrs. Harry Stewart, needlepoint; Mrs. Lynn Harrington, crocheting; Mrs. Henry C. Parry, dried leaves and pods; and Mrs. Edward D. Osterhout, miniature toys. Mrs. Ernest H. Harvey gave an interesting talk on ceramics.

Today's Quiet Moment

(By the Rev. James R. Gailley)

Pastor
Bristol Presbyterian Church

O Lord our God, look down upon us in our weakness and sinfulness, and help us to live better lives. We know that we cannot be perfect in this life; we know that we cannot live sinless lives; but we also know that we can grow in grace and in the knowledge of Christ, and each day advance toward a closer likeness to Him. Forgive us, O God of our many sins, and enable us to profit by the past, that as we move into the future we shall not commit the errors of days gone by. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

ROHM & HAAS EMPLOYEES MEET THE EMPLOYEES OF CHARLES LENNIG CO. IN FIRST INTER-PLANT SPORTS CARNIVAL

(By T. M. June)

The first inter-plant sports carnival of the Rohm and Haas Company, of Bristol, and the Charles Lennig Company, of Bridesburg, was held yesterday with most of the events taking place at the Rohm and Haas Social Club at Maple Beach. The bowling matches were held on the Bristol Recreation Center alleys, Farragut avenue.

The conclusion of the carnival found the Bristol company with 111 points with Bridesburg having 39. Each event was listed as 15 points with points being divided into three's where individual competition took place. The basketball games, both boys and girls won by Rohm and Haas, counted 15 points each.

The Charles Lennig Company excelled in table tennis where the visitors won all the events and in the dart matches in which they won four out of the five. Both the men and women of Rohm & Haas made a clean sweep in the bowling matches while competition was very close in pool and table tennis. The Rohm and Haas shuffleboard players won easily.

Representing the management of both firms, Harry F. Hey presented a large trophy to the Rohm and Haas Social Club for winning the carnival. The trophy was accepted by Walter Speck, president of the Social Club. The trophy will remain in possession of the Bristol club until the outdoor carnival will be held in summer. It is the intention of both clubs to hold these events regularly with the winning organization having the trophy in their possession when won.

Mr. Hey praised the work of Judith Gouza, of Rohm and Haas, and Steve Conthard, of the Charles Lennig-Welfare Committee, for making the carnival a success and stated that the purpose of the events was to develop a pleasant relationship between the Bristol and Bridesburg plants through competition by representatives as individuals and as teams in sports.

Before the presentation of the trophy there was a fencing exhibition by Darwin Wood and Larry Carson, of the Bristol plant. The Bridesburg team was in charge of the humorous boxing exhibition between "Sonny," the 30-pound wonder, and the "Masked Marvel" whose weight was around 250 pounds.

The committees in charge of the affairs were:

BRISTOL HIGH TO PLAY FINAL HOME GAME OF SEASON

Trenton Catholic Team To Be The Attraction Here Tonight

JAYVEES TO PLAY, TOO Game Advanced One Day Due To Tomorrow Being A School Holiday

Bristol High will play its final home game of the season tonight when it meets Trenton Catholic in the high school gym. In the preliminary game, the junior varsity teams of both schools will clash. The game has been advanced a day because tomorrow is a school holiday.

In the last meeting between the two schools, Catholic trounced Bristol in both contests, varsity and junior varsity. The Catholic varsity boys, led by Halecz, scored 56 points, while the junior varsity counted 59 points against the Bunnies' juniors.

But since then Bristol is a changed team. It has won three of its last four games and the lone defeat administered by Florence was an extra-period thriller which Bristol should have won in regulation time, having the lead from the start. Only last Friday night, Coach Bartholomew's boys avenged an early season defeat from P. S. D., trouncing the Mt. Airy boys.

It marked the fourth triumph for Bristol. Trenton Catholic has won ten games and holds two triumphs over Morrisville whom Bristol meets in the season's closer on Friday night.

Coach Bartholomew is pleased with the improvement shown by his boys in recent games, and most likely will start the following: Fischer, DiAngelo, McDevitt, Oriola, and Collins.

Opening tap-off will take place at 7:30 o'clock.

Opinions Differ About Licensed Place

Liquor Control Board's side. Most of them testified that the present place operated by Mrs. Loftus is noisy at night, pretty hard to take after midnight. The witnesses said they couldn't sleep because of the "juke box racket" in the Loftus tap-room.

On the other side of the picture, the pro-Loftus group, took the witness stand during the closing hours of the hearing. Mrs. Loftus, 39, testified that she never violated any laws at her present tap-room; that she closed promptly, never served a drink to an intoxicated person, and ran a first-class establishment. She stated that she wanted to move to the new location because she and her husband own the place, while the present location is badly in need of repairs and costs them $50 a month rent.

Harry J. Loftus, husband of the proprietress, who tends bar and helps out at home, emphasized the law-abiding manner in which his wife has conducted the place.

Mrs. Ida McManus described the place as "first class in every way," a sort of "family place where Trevo's folks and others from nearby towns go at night."

Mrs. Florence Cole, who has five children, testified that she had no objection to the change of location. She, too, said she patronized the place and found it to be "very nice."

Similar testimony was offered by Mrs. Marion Garwood and Mrs. Bertha Novotny, all of whom said they went to the Loftus place Friday and Saturday nights with their husbands to enjoy themselves. It was also testified that the Loftus place serves excellent meals at the new quarters, which may or may not have a liquor license in the future.

The case will be argued at the next regular term of argument court and then a decision will be made by the county.

Return To Tunisia; Writer Visits Battlefields

down and the tanks had to come up to capture Sened Station. The armor kept on rolling toward Maknassy but the High Command suddenly decided that even if the push reached the sea our lines would be greatly overextended, so the attack was called off and the Americans again retired to Gafsa.

Sened Valley again became a battleground in March, when the American forces were driving toward their historic junction with the British Eighth Army. On March 29 the Yanks recaptured Sened Station. Two days later they walked into Maknassy. Hopes of driving to the sea and pinning the German forces again ran high but German defenders halted the drive eight miles east of Maknassy. Rommel's forces got away, staving off their inevitable defeat by a few more weeks.

Sened Valley looks peaceful enough today. Only slit trenches and occasional wrecked vehicles remind one of the war. The sowing season is on and much of the battlefield is back in cultivation.

But Arab farmers are reminded of the war all too frequently. In Sened Station I was told that Arab plowmen are blown up by German mines nearly every day in the valley and the mountain ranges which flank it. Remains of three Jeeps beside the road just west of the station also recall the extensive German mine laying throughout the area.

Trains run through Sened Station several times each week, but on the siding is one locomotive which will never make the Maknassy run again. It is burned and wrecked as the result of an enemy strafing mission. The largest building in town, resembling an American automobile garage, is still minus a roof lost in a Stuka dive bombing. There are two wrecked American half-tracks and one enemy tank on the eastern edge of the village.

Signs of war grow scarcer as you approach Maknassy. Flocks of sheep cross the road leisurely at intervals and olive trees grow in orderly groves. Maknassy, like most southern Tunisian towns, seems to be back to normal. A few wrecked buildings on the west edge of town bring back memories of frequent dive bombings by German Stukas and the little white railroad station is pockmarked from shrapnel, but only the museum shows the extent of the war which once engulfed Maknassy.

M. Nicolini, who remained in the town with his wife and three of his five sons all through the Maknassy phase of the campaign, is back at his old job in the station. Twenty-four other French families, who fled into the hills when war came, are back in their homes. Rene Audigier still commands the Maknassy Gendarmerie Nationale.

Vast American Offensive In The Pacific Area Reverberates In Tokyo

The Jap Domei agency acknowledged that 18 vessels, five of them warships, were destroyed in the Truk offensive.

Tokyo also admitted 120 of its planes were lost. Although these figures were under the actual losses of 19 ships definitely sunk, seven probably sunk and 201 planes lost, the Jap announcement was remarkable in that it admitted a major defeat. The subsequent announcement of the removal of Nippon's army and navy chiefs was confirmation of the serious attitude Tokyo has been forced to take.

Admiral Nimitz announced that elements of the 106th Infantry, supplemented by a unit of the 22nd Marines, have landed on Eniwetok and now have possession of the western half of the island. "Casualties continued light," the communiqué said.

In Washington, observers felt that the successful attack on Truk left that base virtually useless as a haven for Nippon's fleet and demonstrated America's ability to strike new blows westward toward the Philippines and China.

Over in the Southwest Pacific the hard-hit Jap base of Rabaul on New Britain Island was revealed to have undergone a new smashing aerial assault in the wake of the bombardment by U. S. warships. Four-motored bombers dropped 123 tons of explosives on the Vunakanau and Tolera airdromes.

Britain's Air Ministry did not reveal immediately the targets hammered in Germany during the night for the second straight night. Coastal observers, however, reported that powerful formations of the RAF went into action in the wake of the greatest U. S. aerial onslaught carried out in daylight yesterday. Some 2,000 American aircraft devastated eight Nazi aircraft manufacturing centers. Gen. Henry H. Arnold said in Washington that probably 25 per cent of the Nazi fighter plane production was knocked out.

London underwent two night alerts when the Nazis attempted to retaliate with fire bombs and high explosives, several districts surrounding London suffered severe damage from bombs and incendiaries but the twin raids, one late last night and another early today, were only side-show actions compared with the Allied bombardments of the Continent.

Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson's headquarters in Algiers said Allied troops on the Fifth Army beachhead before Rome, strongly supported by tanks, aircraft and naval vessels, threw the Germans back and took several hundred Nazi prisoners.

The beachhead battle area was plastered by Allied bombers which struck at Nazi troop concentrations. Fortified points along the coast were hammered by salvos from both American and British warships which concentrated their fire in the Formia and Anzio sectors.

Russia's northern armies advanced steadily southwest from the newly regained Leningrad region and from west of Lake Ilmen toward the vital Nazi-held bastion of Pskov near the Estonian frontier. One column was within 29 miles of Dno, 60 miles east of Pskov and last important German base along the westward route to Pskov.

ON THE SCREENS

BRISTOL THEATRE

What shouldn't happen to a dog seems to happen to Henry Aldrich in "Henry Aldrich Swings In" last night at the Bristol Theatre to the vast entertainment of the audience, and this reviewer.

Henry, as portrayed by Jimmy Lydon, is up to new tricks that are funnier than ever to everyone but him. His latest escapade involves him in the disappearance of a $10,000 Stradivarius owned by a great violinist, Josef Altman (Fritz Feld). Henry simply picks it up, believing it to be his own cheap fiddle, and uses it to play a swing land encirclement at a shady inn.
